COMPREHENSION
A CAMPING HOLIDAY

Last summer Roger and his sister Jill went on a camping holiday in Wales with their parents for the first time. Their new blue tent, which had two bedrooms and a living- room, was pitched in a large field near a sandy bay. There were no other tents in the field and Roger pretended that they were explorers.

Early every morning the two children and their mother went swimming while their father made the breakfast. When they came back, hungry from their exercise, they found him cooking beans and eggs on a portable gas stove. After breakfast they went down to the beach and played cricket and enjoyed the sunshine.

In the afternoons the children went fishing with their nets in the clear pools, while their parents sat on the sand reading. In the evening they walked to the farmhouse at the foot of the hill. They watched the cows being milked and then they had super with the farmer and his wife. The farmer told the children all about his animals and his crops and promised to let them help with the harvest if they came back in the autumn. At sunset they strolled back along the deserted road to their tent, climbed into their sleeping bags and fell fast asleep. Nothing disturbed them until the singing of the birds woke them next morning.

True or false?

1. Roger and Jill had not been camping before. _____
2. Their father cooked the supper every evening. _____
3. The camp site was very crowded. _____
4. The children slept soundly at night. _____
5. Portable means 'easily carried'. _____
6. The beach was quiet close. _____
7. The family got up early every morning. _____
8. They all went fishing in the afternoons. _____
